It is used to compute brightness in the zenith direction (i. e. , looking straight up) only. To correct this, the effects of off-angle views and the corresponding corrections to the zenith brightness were made. Berry (12) points out that, to a first approximation, we can assume that light originating from a city is scattered through an optically thin uniform layer of the atmosphere. The brightness of the layer is then proportional to a line-of-sight (LOS) thickness through...
