

Chronocity. The assessment of built heritage for developable and creative change.

---

By -

Alinea Editrice, 2010. Book Condition: new. Edited by Dimitra Babalis. English Text. Firenze, 2010; paperback, pp. 112, b/w ill., cm 22x28. (Cities, Design & Sustainability Series. 6). One of the principal aims of each European University is to improve the quality of higher education and to promote learning opportunities. It is also important to put policy into an international context emphasising innovative teaching and research that can be commonly recognised. Over the last few years the University of Florence started the process by offering some priorities to encourage a network of competitively-appointed universities putting in evidence based learning so that can develop research project leaders and deliverers. Currently, the University of Florence is fully involved in strengthening the internationalisation process such as the development of cooperation among a larger number of partner universities. New agreements are increasingly being made with countries outside the European Union such as the United States, Russia and many Latin American universities, and with institutions in the Mediterranean area, Japan, Republic of China. The University of Florence, in fact, is leading the way in planning and developing high-quality international research networks and policies that work with joined-up thinking and across important scientific topics. We are therefore...

READ ONLINE
[ 2.11 MB ]

Reviews

An exceptional pdf and the typeface utilized was fascinating to read through. It can be written in straightforward words and phrases instead of confusing. I am just quickly could possibly get a delight of looking at a written ebook.

-- Prof. Arlie Bogan

It is in a single of the best book. This is for those who state there had not been a well worth reading through. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Dr. Barney Robel Jr.