Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Summary of the Principal Chinese Treatises: Upon the Culture of the Mulberry and the Rearing of Silk Worms The attention of the American People having been attracted for several years to the culture of silk, with all its attendant advantages, both to individuals and as a source of national wealth, the following compilation, from Chinese authors, made by authority of the French Government, it is hoped will prove interesting, and not entirely unprofitable, to the yet incipient serigene art in the United States. Notwithstanding the superiority of the French in the arts and sciences, and length of time which has elapsed since the introduction of the manufacture of silk into France, (in the reign of Francis I,) the fact, of the great superiority of the Chinese culture is frankly admitted by M. Camille Beauvais, the gentleman at whose instance the French Minister directed this Translation to be made from the Chinese works. Such is the strength of his testimony on one point, that he asserts, the Chinese lose in the rearing scarcely one per...
